

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to oxygen conducting membranes comprising a dense, mixed-conducting, multi-metallic oxide membrane having one surface which is coated with dispersed particles based on noble metals or magnesium oxide. The invention also relates to the preparation of said membranes, to a reactor comprising a membrane and to the use of said membranes in oxygen recovery and oxidation methods.